

Hi Friends!

I just got word from Abel that the well guys have left for the well site today (finally!) We signed a contract over a week ago, and they were supposed to start last Tuesday, August 7th, but they had some trouble with the machine and we were beginning to think they were not going to be able to deliver, but thank God, it seems that things are now moving! I am in Mombasa getting ready to receive a team of 5 guys from Brazil next Wednesday and Abel is in the Pokot overseeing the drilling process and taking pictures! They say that the water may only be found at 170 meters (557 feet), but please pray with us that they find it at 100 meters or less so we can use the traditional hand-pump instead of the VERY expensive solar powered electric pump!

We're really excited and will be sending pictures soon!
